Raising money from your home

The Financial Services Authority (FSA) is the UK's financial watchdog set up by government to regulate financial services and protect your rights.

Remember, this is general information and isn't the same as getting financial or other professional advice. For advice based on your own circumstances, talk to a professional adviser.

This guide is for you if

You want to know how you can use the value of your home to raise additional income or a cash lump sum, or both.

It's about equity release schemes and:

- explains how you use them to raise money from the value of your home;
- points out some of the risks involved; and
- answers some of the questions you may have.

How equity release schemes work

The equity (value) you have in your home is its open market value less any mortgage or other debt held against it. Equity release is a way of getting cash from the value of your home without having to move out of it.

There are two main types of equity release scheme – lifetime mortgages and home reversions.

See the Jargon buster on page 23 for an explanation of some of the words in this guide.

Equity release schemes are complex and you should always consider taking professional advice before making any commitment.

Key points

With an equity release scheme, you:

- have to be over a certain age (typically over 50) and own your own home;
- can get a cash lump sum, a regular income, or both, to use as you wish;
- continue to live in your home; and
- continue to be responsible for maintaining your home.

With a lifetime mortgage you:

- take out a loan that is secured on your home (that is, the lender knows they can get their money back by selling your home);
- continue to own your home, although you will have to pay back the mortgage on it;
- repay the mortgage from the proceeds of the sale of your home when you die, or if you move out of it (perhaps to a care home).

See page 5 for more information on lifetime mortgages.

With a home reversion you:

- sell all or part of your home to a reversion company or an individual;
- no longer own your home, but continue to live there as a tenant of the reversion company or individual.

The home is sold when you die, or if you move out of it (perhaps to a care home).

See page 7 for more information on home reversions.

How do you get your money?

You will normally get your money as a cash lump sum to use as you wish.

However, if you want an income, you have various options:

- You can invest the lump sum in an annuity or some other investment to provide a regular income (with some schemes the provider does this for you).
- Your scheme may provide a regular income that is not linked to an annuity or investment.
- Other schemes provide an income (or lump sum) only when you need it, on a drawdown basis – see page 6.
- Some schemes combine these features. For example, you can take a lump sum at the start, and then draw down income later.

Key points

Equity release schemes can be helpful but they are not suitable for everyone. You may consider these alternatives if you need money:

- Selling your current home and buying a smaller property – you’d keep full ownership of your new home and avoid paying interest on a loan.
- Contacting your local council or other organisation to check if you could claim money to pay for home repairs or improvements – see Useful contacts.
- Claiming any State benefits you may be entitled to – see Useful contacts.
- Tracing any private pensions or investments that you may have lost track of – see Useful contacts.
- Using your savings or selling any investments – but consider getting advice before doing so – see Useful contacts.

Different types of equity release schemes

Lifetime mortgages

These are the main types currently available:

Roll-up mortgage

The loan you get can be a regular income or a cash lump sum.

Fixed or variable interest is added to the loan monthly or yearly. But you do not pay the interest until your home is sold. This could be when you die or need to go into a care home.

Interest is charged on the loan and also on all the interest that has already been added. Because of this, the amount you owe can grow quickly, especially if you take a lump sum at the start – see the table below.

Number of years since you took out the loan	Amount you owe if you take a lump sum of £45,000 at the start and if the mortgage interest rate is:
	5% a year	7% a year	9% a year
5	£57,433	£63,115	£69,239
10	£73,301	£88,522	£106,532
15	£93,552	£124,157	£163,912
20	£119,399	£174,136	£252,199
25	£152,387	£244,235	£388,039

The other type of roll-up mortgage is a drawdown mortgage. This means that instead of taking the loan as a single lump sum at the start, you take smaller amounts over time.

These amounts can be taken at regular intervals or as and when you need them.

Because you are taking smaller amounts over time, the total amount you owe will grow more slowly than if you take a lump sum at the start.

A roll-up mortgage may give you a higher income than a home income plan (see below) as you are not paying back interest on the loan until it is repaid.

Interest-only mortgage

The loan you get is a cash lump sum.

You pay interest on the loan each month at a fixed or variable rate.

If the interest rate is variable and your pension or other source of income is fixed, you may find it more difficult to meet your repayments when interest rates rise.

The amount you originally borrowed is repaid when your home is sold.

Fixed repayment mortgage

The loan you get is a cash lump sum.

Instead of being charged interest on the loan, you agree that when your home is sold you will pay the lender a higher sum than you borrowed.

This higher sum is agreed at the outset. How much higher it is will depend on your age and life expectancy.

The lender takes this higher sum in repayment for the mortgage when your home is sold.

However, when you die, the lender may charge interest on this higher sum from the date you die until the mortgage is actually repaid.

Home income plan

The loan you get is a cash lump sum.

The lump sum is used to buy an annuity that gives you a regular income, usually fixed for life.

From this income you pay the interest on your loan, usually at a fixed rate, and the rest is for you to use as you wish.

The amount you originally borrowed is repaid when your home is sold.

The extra income you will get is fairly low if you take the annuity soon after retirement, so this type of scheme is usually only suitable if you are older.

The older you are when you buy an annuity, the higher the income you'll get, as there are fewer years over which the income will need to be paid.

Shared appreciation mortgage (SAM)

Some lifetime mortgages include a shared appreciation element. This means you agree with the lender that they can have a share in any increase in the value of your home when it is sold in return for them charging you less or no interest on the loan.

See page 8 for examples of lifetime mortgages.

Home reversions

A reversion company buys, or arranges for someone else to buy, part or all of your home.

You get the sale proceeds as a cash lump sum, an income, or both. You can invest the lump sum yourself as another way of providing an income – some schemes can do this for you.

You will normally be paid less than the full market value of your home – typically between 35% and 60% – because the buyer cannot re-sell the property until you die or until you move out (perhaps into a care home).

The older you are when you start the scheme, the higher is the percentage you'll get.

The minimum age for these schemes is usually higher than for lifetime mortgages.

You also usually get a lease giving you the right to carry on living in the home for the rest of your life (or until you no longer need it).

You should check the terms of the lease to make sure you understand what you have to do.

Usually you do not pay rent, or if you do it is a token amount. But with some schemes, you can pay a higher rent in return for more money from the sale.

Once the scheme has started, the buyer of your home benefits from any rise in its value.

If you have only sold part of your home, you benefit from any rise in the value of the part you have kept.

See page 10 for examples of home reversion schemes.

Lifetime mortgages These examples are for illustration only.

They are all for the same loan amount of £45,000 and show what you might get and what you might have to pay based on an interest rate of 6.5%. Before taking out an equity release scheme, get advice from a solicitor and a regulated financial adviser (see page 11).

Type of equity release scheme	Payment as income or lump sum	Monthly interest payable on loan	Monthly income	Amount you owe if you die/move out after 15 years	Who gets the proceeds of selling your home	Any other comments
Roll-up mortgage	Lump sum	Nil	Depends on how the lump sum is invested.	£45,000 (the original loan) plus £70,733 interest Total = £115,733	The lender gets back the amount owed for the original loan plus interest – you or your beneficiaries get the balance.	Interest is added each month or year and can build up quickly.
	Income	Nil	Depends on arrangements – can be regular or as and when you need it.	£45,000 (the original loan) plus £30,087 interest. This is based on income of £250 each month Total = £75,087	The lender gets back the amount owed for the original loan plus interest – you or your beneficiaries get the balance.	Interest is added each month or year and can build up quickly. Note: £250 each month over 15 years equals the loan amount of £45,000.
Interest-only mortgage	Lump sum	£243.75	Depends on how the lump sum is invested.	£45,000 (the original loan)	The lender gets back the amount owed for the original loan – you or your beneficiaries get the balance.	You will have paid £43,875 in interest over the 15 years (£243.75 each month over 15 years).
Fixed repayment	Lump sum	Nil	Depends on how the lump sum is invested.	£45,000 (the original loan) + agreed sum at outset + interest from the date of death till the date when the loan is paid off.	The lender gets back the amount owed – you or your beneficiaries get the balance.	Doesn't matter how long the mortgage lasts as the amount you owe is fixed.
Home income plan	Lump sum (annuity bought with lump sum)	£243.75	Depends on the annuity. The income must be enough to pay at least £243.75 each month to cover the interest.	£45,000 (the original loan)	The lender gets back the amount owed for the original loan – you or your beneficiaries get the balance.	You pay tax on the income you get from an annuity. You will have paid £43,875 in interest over the 15 years (£243.75 each month over 15 years). Since the interest payment is taken off the annuity income, the extra income you will get is fairly small. This scheme is usually only suitable if you are older (perhaps 80 or over). The older you are when you start an annuity, the higher the income.
Shared appreciation	Lump sum	Nil or reduced interest payments	Depends on how the lump sum is invested.	£45,000 (the original loan) + share (eg 60%) of any increase in value of the property. For example, if your home increases in value by £120,000, then you add 60% of £120,000 (ie £72,000) to the original £45,000 – Total = £117,000	The lender gets back the amount owed for the original loan plus a share of the increase in value of the property – you or your beneficiaries get the balance.	The share the lender will take will vary according to the increase in value of the property.

Home reversions

These examples are not based on any particular amount released. Before taking out an equity release scheme, get advice from a solicitor and a regulated financial adviser (see page 11).

Type of equity release scheme	Payment as income or lump sum	Monthly interest payable	Monthly income	Amount you owe if you die/move out after 15 years	Who gets the proceeds of selling your home	Any other comments
Home reversion	Lump sum from the sale of part or all of the property.	Nil – a reversion is not a loan so there will be no interest.	Depends on how you invest the lump sum.	Depends on the value of the property at the time you die and how much of it you sold.	The home reversion company – you or your beneficiaries get the value of any part of your home you didn't sell.	You will normally get less than the full market value of your property – typically between 35% and 60%.
	or Income from the sale of part or all of the property.	As above	Depends on arrangements.	As above	As above	You may have to pay regular rent.  It is important to get your home independently valued – see page 21 Step 3.

Key things to think about

Getting financial advice

Firms selling equity release schemes must usually be regulated by us. This means they have to meet certain standards that we monitor, and we take action if they don't.

Their advertisements, product brochures and other literature must be clear, fair and not misleading. You can check if a firm is regulated – see Useful contacts.

In addition, you will have access to the Financial Ombudsman Service and the Financial Services Compensation Scheme if things go wrong – see Useful contacts.

Some home reversion providers don't need to be regulated by us. If you're offered a product from these firms, the adviser should explain to you about the protection you will lose out on.

Information or advice?

When you ask about equity release schemes, the person you speak to will usually describe the product or service to you. You'll also receive printed information. This is general information – not advice specific to your needs and circumstances.

If you are uncertain about which equity release scheme is right for you, then consider getting professional advice.

Buying with advice

FSA-regulated firms must only recommend schemes that are suitable for you and take into consideration your needs and circumstances.

Information you will get

They should give you two documents with the keyfacts sign. These documents contain important information that you should read and understand. The first will explain the service being offered (advice or information); whether you'll have to pay for it; and the product range they offer.

The second (often referred to as the Keyfacts illustration or KFI) will be prepared specifically for you, summarising the important risks and features of the particular scheme.

Because firms must prepare these documents in similar ways, you can use them to shop around and compare different services and schemes. Use them to make sure the deal you get is right for you.

Buying without advice

You don't have to take advice, but if you don't and the scheme you choose turns out to be unsuitable you will have fewer grounds for complaint.

Prepare yourself

Before starting a particular equity release scheme, it's worth asking yourself or an adviser a few things. For example:

- Could it affect your income tax position and entitlement to State benefits? For example, a scheme may reduce your entitlement to State benefits, leaving you less well off than you first thought.
- Could it restrict your options in the future? For example, owing money to an equity release company could leave you short of capital if you wanted to move to a smaller property, or use money from selling the property to pay for long-term care in a private care home.

- If you are investing the lump sum to provide an income:

- will the income be fixed or will it vary?
- will the level of income be guaranteed or depend on how your investment grows?
- could you lose the lump sum invested?

- You should also compare the return on your investment with:

- the interest rate you will be paying on the lifetime mortgage; or
- in the case of a home reversion, how much less than the market value you will get – will the return on your investment make up for the cost of selling your home?

Remember that using an equity release scheme to provide money to invest carries a high risk.

If you are considering releasing money to put in a bank account or savings account for emergencies or a 'rainy day', any interest you will get will probably be less than the cost of releasing money from your home – so you'll be losing money.

- How might it affect the amount of money you will be able to leave to your beneficiaries – the people who benefit from your estate when you die?

- How would inflation affect the value of any fixed income you receive? £100 will buy more today than £100 in ten years' time.

Fees and costs

Typical costs and fees are:

- arrangement fee: £300 to £600;
- valuation fee: linked to the value of the property, but probably around £300;
- legal costs: £300 to £700;
- buildings insurance: £200 to £300 per year, depending on the property;
- early repayment charge: if you repay your lifetime mortgage before the end of the contract (for example, before you die or go into care) you may have to pay an early repayment charge. Different lenders may calculate these charges differently, so the amount you pay may also vary;
- possible rental charges: with a home reversion you may have to pay rent, but often this is only a token amount.

With a lifetime mortgage some of these costs can be added to the loan so you pay less up front, but you pay interest on any amounts added.

If you decide to borrow more in future under a drawdown arrangement, your lender may charge further lending fees.

When considering an equity release scheme

You will have many things to think about if you want to consider an equity release scheme. This summary and Your questions answered section on page 18 cover many of them.

Lifetime mortgages

Home reversions

If you decide to move

Most lifetime mortgages can be transferred if the new property is acceptable to the lender.

If you are moving to a lower-value property, you will usually have to repay part of a lifetime mortgage.

If you cannot transfer the scheme, you will have to repay the whole mortgage from the proceeds of selling your property.

Think carefully about the effect of the roll-up of interest or the shared appreciation feature of the loan. The amount you have to pay back could be quite high and you may have less than you expected to buy a new property with.

If you repay the loan early, you may also face early repayment charges.

You should check with the lender for any restrictions on moving.

Some home reversion plans can be transferred if the new property is acceptable to the provider.

If the scheme can't be transferred, you will have to pay off the whole amount from the proceeds of selling the property. You may then have too little money left to buy a new property.

If you owe more than the property is worth

Lifetime mortgages

Home reversions

With a roll-up mortgage, the outstanding loan including the added interest can grow very fast. If the total rose to more than the value of your property, this would result in 'negative equity', where you owe more than your home is worth. This could mean that:

- the lender may ask you to start paying interest during your lifetime, because by then the loan could be very large; or
- after your death your beneficiaries would have to repay the extra above the value of your property from your estate.

However, most lifetime mortgages offer a 'no-negative-equity guarantee'. This is a promise that your beneficiaries will never have to repay more than the value of your property – so do check to see if the scheme has this feature.

Some schemes also have a fixed or capped interest rate, or a fixed repayment amount – so that you know in advance the maximum amount you could owe at any given time.

Your questions answered

Question

What happens to my partner if I die?

Answer

If the scheme is in both your names, the arrangements will continue.

If the property and scheme were in your sole name, the property would have to be sold and your partner would have to find somewhere else to live (unless, for example, they could repay the lifetime mortgage in full).

Question

Is there a minimum amount I have to take?

Answer

There may be a minimum amount you have to take. This could be, say, £15,000 or £25,000. It will depend on the scheme and provider. But you may not have to take it all at once. Drawdown loans can be taken in smaller amounts over time.

Question

Would an equity release scheme reduce the amount of inheritance tax due on my estate after my death?

Answer

An equity release scheme will reduce the value of the estate you leave when you die so this may reduce any inheritance tax. But if you are thinking of using an equity release scheme as part of your planning for inheritance tax, it's best to seek professional advice.

Question

Who would be responsible for maintenance costs in the home?

Answer

You will be responsible for keeping the home in good repair. If you don't maintain the home, the scheme provider could arrange the necessary repairs and you would have to pay for them.

Your questions answered

Question

What happens if I or my partner needs long-term care?

Answer

Your equity release scheme will usually carry on unchanged if care is provided in your own home or just one of you moves to a residential or nursing home.

If you both move into a care home, the scheme will usually end and the property will be sold.

Question

What about changes in my circumstances?

Answer

If you take equity release while single and later decide to share the home, you may be able to transfer the scheme into your joint names, but this may only be possible if the second person meets the scheme's minimum age requirements. There may also be a charge for this.

If you cannot transfer the scheme into joint names, the other person will not be able to stay in the home if you die or move out.

Next steps

Step 1

Find out what your options are, and whether you can get financial help from State benefits, charities or your local council. If you think you need an equity release scheme, consider getting professional advice from a regulated adviser.

Step 2

Make sure you get the two keyfacts® documents from your adviser or provider and use them to shop around and get the right deal for you.

Ask questions if anything is unclear. Whether you take professional advice or not, you should satisfy yourself that the scheme you take up is right for you.

Step 3

The provider will assess your application. They will also value the property, check that you are who you say you are and – if you have to make monthly payments – check whether you can afford the payments.

In the case of a home reversion, the provider must ensure any valuation is carried out independently.

Step 4

You will get an offer document. This is your final chance to check you are happy with all the terms and conditions of the scheme. If anything is not clear, talk to the provider.

Don't sign up for a scheme until you are sure it is right for you.

If things go wrong

If something goes wrong, contact the adviser or provider to put matters right. They have a procedure to follow when dealing with complaints.

If you're not satisfied with their response, you may be able to take the matter to the Financial Ombudsman Service.

The firm should give you the details of this service. See our Making a complaint guide – see Useful contacts.

Some key words and phrases explained.

Annuity

An investment that converts a lump sum into income that is taxed.

Arrangement fee

A commitment or administration fee that you usually pay the lender to reserve the mortgage funds.

Equity release

A way you can benefit from the value of your home without having to move out – by borrowing against it or selling all or part of it for a regular income or a lump sum.

Home income plan

A loan that pays you a cash lump sum with which you buy an annuity to give you a monthly income, usually fixed for life. Part of the income is used to pay the interest on the loan.

Home reversion

A type of equity release scheme – you sell all or part of your home to a scheme provider in return for regular income or a cash lump sum or both, and continue to live in your home for as long as you wish.

Lifetime mortgage

A type of equity release scheme - a loan secured on your home, which is repaid by selling your home when you die or go into long-term care.

Mortgage

A loan secured on property.

Negative equity

When the amount you owe the lender is more than the value of your home.

Jargon buster

Roll-up mortgage

A loan to which the interest is added each month or year.

Secured

If you do not repay your loan, the lender can sell your home to get its money back.

Shared appreciation mortgage

Instead of getting some or all of the interest on the loan, the lender takes a share in any increase in the value of your home when it is sold.
